Online MA in Medieval European Identity

The Research Group leads the online MA programme in Medieval European Identity aimed at training new researchers. This MA, which is taught through the medium of Spanish by 46 experienced lecturers from five universities, offers students the unique opportunity to complete a Masters degree by means of a combination of group teaching delivered in a virtual classroom, and individual tuition. Following the completion of the basic research training, students may choose to focus on one of three specialisms in medieval studies: history, art history, or philology.
